Abbas Malik guarded the Green Zone in Iraq, but he can't get hired as a mall security guard in Staten Island. After two Iraq tours, Malik, 27, returned to the U.S. in 2009 and applied for overseas security jobs.

"Nothing bit," he said, so he next applied to guard the Guggenheim and Madison Square Garden and finally even the Staten Island Mall for some summer cash.

"I operated machine guns in Baghdad," Malik said, "but I can't have a flashlight at MSG."

He speaks fluent Urdu and was an interpreter in Iraq; but here in the U.S., Malik cannot get a translation job without a degree. And Army training doesn't count—for example, a military medic would have to get re-certified to become an EMT back in the States.

Malik, who is pursuing a political science degree at the College of Staten Island, said he was surprised to sense that his military skills intimidate, not impress, prospective employers.

"They see my resume and they're like, 'Oh, you're a designated marksman,' and they just make a face," he said. "They probably assume I'm unstable."

He is not alone: 13 percent of New York City's 17,000 war veterans are now unemployed. That's higher than the national unemployment rate of 9 percent.

Kevin Kirwan, 35, spent 14 years in the Navy controlling complicated logistics in North Africa, Jerusalem and Italy.

Now living in Queens, his bachelor's degree in justice administration qualifies him for middle-management jobs that he says are often filled internally. After sending out 200 job applications, many employers tell him he is overqualified for entry-level work.

"It is very frustrating," he said. "I don't think it's lack of effort."

Malik said he is considering returning to war just to pay the bills.

"I'm irrationally looking at the military again as an option," he said. "Times are getting tougher."

Hiring Heroes

NEW YORK. U.S. Sen. Kirsten Gillibrand is trying to get Congress to pass her Hiring Heroes Act, which would require the military to mandate and improve job training, and to follow up with veterans within six months.

In another separate proposal, Gillibrand wants to offer tax breaks to employers who hire veterans.

Malik said the job training he received from the Army consisted of being told what colognes to avoid during interviews.

"People wanted to hear about my war stories," said Matt Gallagher, an Iraq war vet. "But they weren't necessarily making me more attractively to a civilian employer."

Nude on Wall Street: This is transparency

► Performers disrobe on America's most famous thoroughfare to demand transparency out of financial giants ► Three arrested in the public stunt

A critical eye

Not everyone was impressed with the stunt.

"It didn't look like art," said Angelo Sarango, 32, a window cleaner from New Jersey. "People do that all the time on the subway."

Arrests made

At least three of the performers were arrested by the NYPD and charged with disorderly conduct and "exposure," according to Throwell. ● METRO/EAE

At approximately 7 a.m. yesterday, 50 people descended on Wall Street. They looked like the usual bankers, assistants, vendors and police officers. But, by 7:03 a.m., they were naked.

The striptease was part of a performance piece created by Zefrey Throwell, an artist and self-proclaimed "troublemaker" who lives in Chinatown. "I'm trying to illuminate a dark cranny in the financial world," said Throwell, 35.

He organized the performance, titled "Ocularpation," after watching his mother lose her entire life savings in the stock market crash of 2008. The business of Wall Street has remained essentially the same since, he said.

"It's been three years and nothing has changed," Throwell said.

The performers populated Wall Street from Trinity Church down to South Street.

Greenpoint resident Vanessa Marie, 26, portrayed a window dresser before she disrobed to her birthday suit. She wanted to participate because she agreed with Throwell's message, she said.

"His mother lost a lot of money in the stock market and my father did as well," she said.

Dream weddings smothered

► Brides say their ideal wedding locale is now covered by scaffolding and marred by a nasty port-o-john

► The Montauk Club sent out an e-mail in May warning brides-to-be of the unsightly scaffolding.

Rachel McLennan envisioned herself in a flowing white gown, posed on the steps of Park Slope's historic Montauk Club on her wedding day.

But after signing a contract with the club last year, she found out in May that Brooklyn's 122-year-old architectural gem would be covered by dark scaffolding on her big day. Not to mention the port-o-john parked in the yard.

"Of course that's exactly what you want to get married in," said a sarcastic McLennan, who is planning an October ceremony. "I cried hysterically in front of the club when I saw it. I was devastated."

McLennan is one of six brides who say they were misled by the Montauk Club: Each woman paid an $1,800 deposit before being told — in one case, 10 days before her wedding — that the facade of the building would be draped in scaffolding.

Greenpoint resident

"You want your place to be perfect. You want it to be special. And that's what this club was selling. But if they would have sold what it actually is now, probably nobody would have signed up."

ATTORNEY DAVID SCHWARZ

Jeniza Ketay's husband spotted the scaffolding 10 days before their May 21 nuptials. Racing to find a last-minute venue was nothing short of "traumatic," she said.

"I was in shock," said Katie Dixon, 29, a bride who hoped to use the club as a backdrop in photos. "We just have to move forward because we don't want there to be a shadow over the wedding."

ALISON BOWEN
alison.bowen@metro.us

$5K

Rachel McLennan paid an extra $5,000 to switch and reserve Battery Gardens for her big day. She also wants the Montauk Club to reimburse her for the money she spent changing venues and dates on invitations.

No refund, but a deal on food?

NEW YORK. The $1,800 to $2,500 deposit to reserve the site is nonrefundable, said Joseph Callahan, a lawyer for the Montauk Club.

According to Callahan

the club still offers a pristine interior; he says two brides signed up just last month to have their weddings there, despite the scaffolding. And besides, he says, the netting would only distract for "a minute and a half walking up the steps."

The club also offered disgruntled brides a 15 percent discount on catering.

All six disgruntled brides have acquired attorney David Schwarz to fight for refunds. He said he is trying to get their money back and if not, will sue. ● METRO/AB

Details of raid on bin Laden

This week's New Yorker magazine presents an extensive account of the raid that killed Osama bin Laden.

The report said the SEAL team practiced on fake compounds in North Carolina and Nevada and pulled a Pakistani-American translator from his desk job to participate in the mission. The actual raid proceeded almost like a video game, with bin Laden's associates attacking the team one-by-one in increasing orders of danger. # With a day to spare, debt-limit deal done

► After a day of hard politicking, representatives approved a deal to raise the government's borrowing limit above $14.2T ► Wounded Gabrielle Giffords returned to vote for the settlement

The House of Representatives last night approved an 11th-hour deal to raise the borrowing limit, clearing the biggest hurdle to averting a potentially catastrophic debt default.

The passage by 269 votes to 161 by the Republican-controlled House paved the way for the approval in the Senate of a $2.1 trillion deficit-cutting plan hammered out over the weekend.

The Democratic-led Senate was expected to vote on the plan today.

Financial markets worldwide have been rattled by uncertainty over whether the compromise plan could pass the House in the face of objections from conservative Tea Party Republicans and from liberal Democrats.

The deal to raise the U.S. government's $14.3 trillion borrowing limit removed the risk of the United States not being able to borrow money to pay all of its bills.

A debt default by the world's largest economy would send shockwaves through the international economic system.

In the hours leading up to the House vote, Republican and Democratic leaders worked furiously to sell their rank-and-file on a deal reached with President Barack Obama in a bid to end an acrimonious impasse that has undermined Americans' faith in their political institutions and hurt America's image abroad.

But fears remained that the United States could still be hit by a damaging credit ratings downgrade, which would raise U.S. borrowing costs, threatening a fragile economic recovery and rattling global investors.

The compromise plan calls for spending cuts over 10 years but no new taxes, creates a powerful new congressional committee to recommend a deficit-reduction package by late November and raises the U.S. borrowing limit into 2013.

It was hard to identify winners in a fight that finally moved towards a conclusion after a compromise agreement reached on Sunday. REUTERS

Most Euro men are related to King Tut

► DNA testing reveals strange genetic link among Europeans ► Oddly, most Egyptians not in the family

Up to 70 percent of British men and half of all Western European men are related to the Egyptian Pharaoh Tutankhamun, geneticists in Switzerland said.

Scientists at Zurich-based DNA genealogy center iGENEA reconstructed the DNA profile of the boy Pharaoh, who ascended the throne at the age of 9. The results showed that King Tut belonged to a genetic profile group, known as haplogroup R1b1a2, to which more than 50 percent of all men in Western Europe belong, indicating that they share a common ancestor.

Among modern-day Egyptians this haplogroup contingent is below 1 percent, according to iGENEA.

Around 70 percent of Spanish and 60 percent of French men also belong to the genetic group of the Pharaoh who ruled Egypt more than 3,000 years ago.

"We think the common ancestor lived in the Caucasus about 9,500 years ago," Scholz told Reuters.

It is estimated that the earliest migration of haplogroup R1b1a2 into Europe began with the spread of agriculture in 7,000 B.C., according to iGENEA. However, geneticists are not sure how Tutankhamun's lineage came to Egypt. REUTERS

Our Aim is to Beat Most Offers!

We Strive to Beat All Legitimate Written Offers

Before Bringing your items to us, take them to other dealers. Have them give you legitimate offers in writing. Then bring your jewelry and written offers to one of our locations. Although no one can guarantee with certainty they are paying the highest price for an article at any particular time, we will strive to beat most legitimate written offers.

Why We Can Usually Pay More Than Other Dealers

Most jewelers and dealers specialize in few items and focus on newer looking items to resell. Because they are unfamiliar with many other items including vintage jewelry, old watches, coins, flatware, etc. they tend to offer very low prices because these items are not readily saleable for them. Our company has many specialized buyers for the various classifications of items that we purchase, therefore we can usually pay more.

A Note Regarding the Up To Prices listed in this Ad

The condition and rarity of an item determines its price. If an item is in excellent condition and very rare it might be worth the up to price, or even more. However, if an item is in poor condition, the value will be lower. For example, a 1927 S Quarter could be worth $7,000 in new condition or less than $20 in poor condition. The up to price reflects items of exceptional quality and rarity. Although it is unlikely you will have these items due to their extreme rarity, feel free to bring whatever items you may have and we will evaluate them free of charge.

Customer Satisfaction

Most of our business comes from satisfied customers and referrals which includes their friends and families. Our showrooms are safe and private. Our staff is courteous and professional and we strive as a company to make your selling experience a pleasant one.

THE WORD

Metro's Dorothy Robinson shares her take on the world of gossip @dorothyatmetro dorothy.robinson@metro.us

Art-lovers before they were celebrities

► What a family! Russell Simmons, Ming Lee Simmons, Kimora Lee, Kenzo Lee Hounsou, Djimon Hounsou and Aoki Lee Simmons attend the 12th annual Art for Life benefit on Saturday.

The tony summer benefits held in that rarified enclave for the truly wealthy (and those who are just pretending) known as the Hamptons are now in full swing. This weekend's big fete? A benefit for Art for Life, which was founded by brothers Russell, Danny and Joseph "Rev. Run" Simmons in 1995 to provide urban youth with access to the arts. So we asked the bold-faced names in attendance (which included Edward Norton, Melissa George, Gayle King, Mary J.

Blige, Taraji P. Henson and Soledad O'Brien): How did you express yourself creatively when you were a kid?

Ed Norton:

I got turned on to theater very early. When I was very young, I had a theater teacher who was hugely inspirational to me — actually I still talk and get notes from them. I was 5 or 6 years old when I was first on stage. I didn't know [that I wanted to be an actor] for a long, long time, but I was always a fan.

— With additional reporting by Jeryl Brunner

Taraji P. Henson:

I would entertain my family and they would egg me on. They would sit on the sofa and say, "Go TJ!" And I could do anything: Cheer, a poem, recite lines from a movie that we had just seen. They were my audience.

WWW.METRO.US/WORD

Melissa George:

I was an artistic roller-skating champion. Wide skates. Four wheels. Costumes. I competed around the world. That was my passion. When I was four, I got a pair of skates for Christmas. I loved the fact that I had all these wheels under my feet and I could do all these tricks. I had routines. I was doing axels, salchows and double jumps. I was very proud of all the routines.

Russell Simmons:
I think music.
Dance.
I produced records when I was a kid.
Before that, I liked to paint a lot.

Soledad O'Brien:

It is a little-known fact, but I was quite a accomplished flautist. I played flute and piccolo in the marching band from fourth grade until I graduated from high school. I was inspired to play the flute because I have a lot of brothers and sisters, and they all played the piano. I didn't want to play the piano. I can still play "Bolero."

Talking points

Mama Winehouse?

Before her death last week, Amy Winehouse was reportedly in the process of adopting a 10-year-old girl from St. Lucia, where she'd spent much of 2009, according to the Daily Mirror. "Amy was already my mother," the girl, Dannika Augustine, says. "I would call her Mum, and she would call me her daughter. She took care of me, and we had fun together. I loved her, and she loved me."

Charlie Sheen overseas

Charlie Sheen has reportedly signed a deal to appear on "Celebrity Big Brother" in the U.K., according to the Daily Star. A source says Sheen will be flying to England in the next two weeks for filming after inking a $9.8 million deal.

A 'Twilight' twosome

"Twilight" co-stars Kellan

Lutz and Ashley Greene are reportedly looking to save some money by sharing a New York apartment. "We are talking about maybe trying to find a two-bedroom," Greene tells Hollyscoop of the pair's plans. Greene already wants to set some boundaries. "I think the rule is don't bring anybody home, ever," she says.

Rodriguez and Diaz still on

Despite breakup rumors, relations appear fine between Alex Rodriguez and Cameron Diaz, according to People magazine. Sources spotted the pair dining out in Miami over the weekend to celebrate the Yankee slugger's 36th birthday after cruising around the area on a yacht.

▶ Ethan Hawke stars as Starbuck in "Moby Dick," airing Monday and Tuesday at 8 p.m. on Encore.

Ethan Hawke tackles another classic tale

▶ Live from TCA press tour: The actor on bringing 'Moby Dick' to life as a miniseries on Encore

Ethan Hawke's career reads like the syllabus of a high school English class — "Great Expectations," "Hamlet" and "White Fang" all make the list of classic novel adaptations he's helped bring to life on-screen. And in a way, that's exactly why the actor took the role of Starbuck in Encore's new miniseries, "Moby Dick," airing Monday and Tuesday at 8 p.m.

"It's great material," he shrugged while promoting the project at the Television Critics Association press tour in Beverly Hills, Calif., on Friday. "I also felt like it was time to be done again. It's a great story that kind of needs to be told, and the script is really great. Nigel [Williams] wrote a wonderful script. He figured out a way to tell the story that felt

A good conflict

Hawke admits that he loves playing the bad guy "because you never know what they're going to do." But taking the role of Starbuck, one of the "good guys," presented him with plenty of conflict to play up.

"What is fascinating about Starbuck, who is kind of a moral figure in the book, is he really doesn't do the right thing," Hawke says. "When it's all said and done, he knows that he was the one person that really knew that they were off track, and he couldn't act. It's his own innate goodness, so to speak, that prevents him from doing the just thing, which is so complex and wonderful."

fresh to me, and I was happy to be part of it."

Williams' version of the story spends time with Captain Ahab (William Hurt) off the Pequod, delving into the home life of the revenge-seeking whaler and bringing his wife (Gillian Anderson) into the picture to attempt to humanize the character.

"I think what we've tried to do is to put in more of the novel," Williams says. "This is a colossal, colossal book in which there [are] recipes for clam chowder, [details on] how to drain a whale of blood. There is the passion of seafaring. So there's always another element that you can get into a version of this novel."

Death Cab flirt with disaster

► The band was supposed to play in Ottawa when the stage collapsed
► Singer Ben Gibbard on narrowly escaping a disaster for Cutie

Ben Gibbard is relaxing at home in Los Angeles in between touring bouts for Death Cab for Cutie's liltily lovely (with the odd spot of trademark anxiousness) indie rock album, "Codes and Keys." The break is not without incident, though.

As Gibbard puts it, "It was punctuated by the odd show in Ottawa that didn't happen."

That's right: the show where the stage collapsed as Cheap Trick played!

"We were supposed to be playing after Cheap Trick," continues Gibbard, who married actress and chanteuse Zooey Deschanel in 2010 and moved from his native state, Washington, to L.A. "We were 30 yards away when the stage collapsed; it happened right in front of us. It was absolutely terrifying. It's an unfortunate analogy that gets made at this point in our society whenever you see something unbelievable. But it was like watching a disaster movie. It was like watching a terrible movie. I was actually wondering this morning: If it were the 18th century, how would you describe it to a friend? Would you say it was like a disaster play? Like before TV, would it be a disaster novel?"

Perhaps the viewer would be inspired to write an account? Perhaps turn it into song (hint, hint)?

"That's probably what would happen," he agrees.

Juan Williams' battle for an 'Honest Debate'

- Eight months after being fired from NPR over his comments about people in 'Muslim garb,' Williams is back in the public eye with his new book 'Muzzled'
- How political correctness stifles good solutions

It's always unnerving for a journalist to cross the boundary between covering a story and becoming a story. Fox News analyst Juan Williams found himself in that position in October 2010, following controversial comments he made on "The O'Reilly Factor."

"I remember coming out of my hotel room and seeing my face on the cover of The New York Times and The Wall Street Journal and USA Today," Williams says. "I was thinking, 'What did I do? Did I kill somebody?'"

What he did was to admit feeling nervous when he saw people dressed in Muslim garb at airports in the aftermath of 9/11. Despite going on to say that no one, regardless of religion, should be discriminated against, it was that comment that made headlines and led to his being fired from NPR. That experience serves as the basis for his new book, "Muzzled: The Assault on Honest Debate."

The book traces the stifling effect of political correctness and the insistence on clinging to extreme positions by figures on both the left and the right. "The middle has to reassert itself," he offers as a solution. "People have to say, 'I'm not afraid to speak my mind. I'm not going to be intimidated or bullied by those who tell me to stand in line and obey their orthodoxy.' Honest debate is the first step toward honest ideas and good solutions for the betterment of our country."

3 FALL BEAUTY LAUNCHES WE'RE LOVING

► Kate Spade puckers up, Nars helps you look smokin' and Maybelline's Great Lash mascara turns 40!

1 We love Kate Spade's cute packaging and witty design. And now the brand has partnered with beauty maven Poppy King of Lipstick Queen for an exclusive line of lip shades that, of course, come bottled in the chicest gold tubes with the flirty message "pucker up" written on the side. You'll need all the frills you can get, as the lipsticks — which range in shades from pinks to reds and contain shea butter, coconut oil and vitamin E to hydrate your pout — are a steep $24.

Kate Spade Supercalifragilipstick! Available in September at www.katespade.com

2 Your smoky-eye skills are about to get even sharper. Forget rustling through your makeup bag for various colors — now you can have six shades of Nars' lush, shimmery "Night Series" eye shadows in one sleek palette. Perfect for touch-ups at the party. Nars limited-edition Night Series eye shadow palette, $55, www.narscosmetics.com

3 Who hasn't used a tube (or 20) of Maybelline's best-selling Great Lash mascara? This year, the iconic product turns 40; and to celebrate, Maybelline — the official cosmetic sponsor of Mercedes-Benz Fashion Week — teamed up with designers Max Azria, Tracy Reese and Vivienne Tam to add some glam to our fave green-and-pink tubes. $7, available on Aug. 14 at www.target.com

Which side can you trust?

The Democrats profess that increased spending will create jobs, while the Republicans profess that cutting taxes will create jobs. So who are the unemployed to vote for?

SUZY SANDOR, VIA E-MAIL

Cynical take on the news

Apparently, the story about the Playboy Mansion is more important than the story about the U.S. soldier (Muslim) who was caught red-handed with weapons trying a second massacre in Fort Hood. You didn't publish it and let me guess why: since you reported we'd double our security to protect mosques against "attacks" during Ramadan.

NENCY MULLER, NEW YORK

The power is in our own hands

We voted you all into office and we can just as easily vote you out! What's going to happen to people who have only Social Security to live on, and the disabled veteran and common person on disability? JUDITH FLAIL, VIA E-MAIL

Atheists lack consistency

So atheists are complaining about a cross near Ground Zero. That's kind of funny, because they talk about "separation of church and state" — but support integration of mosque and state. They'll sue over student-run Bible clubs and nativity scenes, but are completely silent when it comes to mandatory Koran reading in schools or taxpayer-funded footbaths. If you're gonna call yourself an atheist or nonreligious, be consistent.

ROCCO LORE, VIA E-MAIL

Our wealth is now the banks'

The Fed loaned $16 trillion of our money to its owner member banks within the past few years, so they can buy up the cheap assets from the crash they created. These banks aren't too big to fail; they are too evil to let live. CHARLES MICHAEL COUCH, BED-STUY

Tea Party has broken its vow

The U.S. deficit is the result of the Bush tax cuts. Section 8 of the Constitution gives Congress the power to levy and collect taxes. By preventing this function, the "Tea Party" members of Congress are in violation of the oath they took to uphold the Constitution. PAUL SIMONS, VIA E-MAIL

Horoscope

♈ Leo July 23-Aug. 22. There's a good chance that, because of past experiences, you might be more informed than others about the ramifications of an endeavor.

♍ Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. Listen to all advice being offered, but give more credence to your own interpretations about financial dealings than anyone else's. That way, you won't concede anything vital.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. Positive thinking is the element that can tip the scales in your favor. If you honestly believe you can do something difficult, you'll make it happen.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22. If you're contemplating taking on a complicated, ambitious undertaking, keep it to yourself. Don't discuss your ideas or plans until you have proven that they'll work.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21. Loyal, long-term relationships are much too valuable to be ignored. If you're planning any special arrangements, make sure old friends are included.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19. The fulfillment of your personal goals might be vital to you, but try to make room to include others in your social plans. Don't allow self-serving interests to completely bar the door.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 19. What you are trying to teach youngsters is extremely important, especially if you're hoping to explain the importance of looking for the good in people instead of only their faults.

♓ Pisces Feb. 20-March 20. If you keep your focus on the type of end results you desire, it will help you avoid obstacles and stay on course should things start to heat up.

♈ Aries March 21-April 19. That cooperation you so badly need from an associate can be acquired if you're brave enough to give the person all of the facts. That's when he or she will believe in you.

♉ Taurus April 20-May 20. If you concentrate your efforts in an area where material rewards are truly possible and you're prepared to work hard, you stand a good chance of achieving your goals.

♊ Gemini May 21-June 20. Because your natural leadership abilities are likely to be far more evident than those of your peers, don't be surprised if you find yourself being thrust into a role of power.

♋ Cancer June 21-July 22. Something in which you find yourself involved has better than average chances of achieving success. However, be realistic and know its limitations.

Giants: O-si you later?

► Team gives Umenyiora's agent permission to seek trade ► Days could be numbered for defensive end

The Giants are almost a week into training camp, yet the biggest story remains about a guy who isn't even practicing.

Osi Umenyiora was given permission by the Giants to seek a trade and the team is reportedly looking for a first-round pick in return. Despite having what general manager Jerry Reese deemed as a "good talk" with Umenyiora over the weekend, it looks like both parties are ready to part ways.

Umenyiora's agent, Tony Agnone, was already on the phones yesterday morning looking for the best deal for his client. Reese, meanwhile, said although they had a good talk on Sunday night, his mission is to do "what's best for the New York Giants." He also declined "any further comments about Osi until we get all the issues resolved."

Regardless of what happens during talks, Reese allowed that Umenyiora is expected to remain in training camp pending any movement. Umenyiora watched practice from the sidelines on Sunday night, mostly from a stationary bike.

Justin Tuck said he's holding out hope that "things will work out" and he's honestly "not even worrying [because] I feel as though Osi will be a Giant."

Bradshaw signs deal

GIANTS. As one Giant seems headed for the exit, another will return.

Osi Umenyiora may be on the way out, but Ahmad Bradshaw has reportedly reached a four-year, $18 million deal with the only team for which he's ever played. Nine million dollars are guaranteed.

The Giants sent a message to Bradshaw by bringing in RB Jason Snelling. Within hours, Bradshaw resigned. ● METRO/TW

Jets keep title core together in search for Super Bowl prize

With all the talk out of the Jets' first day of training camp Monday centering around the theme of "family," the team isn't quite ready to break this thing up.

Over the past week, general manager Mike Tannenbaum and head coach Rex Ryan have quietly pieced together a team that looks an awful lot like last year's Jets. The resignations of Santonio Holmes and Antonio Cromartie are certainly the headline grabbers, but a number of role players have come back to a team that has made the AFC Championship Game in two straight seasons. The Jets aren't ready to shake up this team, and while Ryan talks about this being "the best roster we've had since I've got here," make no mistakes about it — the roster is as much out of necessity as it is loyalty to the players.

While the rest of the league was making roster moves and signings, the Jets have remained shockingly low key as other teams make upgrades and splashes. But the Jets, usually noisy in the free agent market, have been content to take care of their own.

"The net effect of it is that I really like our team," Tannenbaum said yesterday. "I feel like the foundation is there." ● KRISTIAN DYER
